DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following minor informalities:

Paragraph [0005] (PG Pub 2004/0177382), requires attention. In particular, multiple verbs in the first sentence require appropriate correction.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows: (See MPEP Ch. 2141)

- a. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art;
- b. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims in issue;
- c. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art; and
- d. Evaluating evidence of secondary considerations for indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1 through 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103 (a) as being unpatentable over applicant's own admitted prior arts (hereinafter "AAPA") in view of J.S.

Hamilton et al., US Patent Publication 2002/0087973 (hereinafter "Hamilton").

Regarding Claim 1, AAPA substantially discloses:

A method for operating a data broadcasting system (Figure 1), that executes a data broadcast under a client-server environment (Paragraph [0023], the method comprising the steps of: (a) downloading a data service table for a specific application at the client (Figure 1, paragraphs [0023]-[0025]); (Step b is not explicitly present in AAPA) and (c) executing the specific application using data files extracted through the data receiving process.

However, AAPA does not disclose (b) providing an advertisement image and concurrently performing a data receiving process with reference to the data service table. This limitation is disclosed by Hamilton (Paragraph [0014]-[0017]).

Therefore, combination of AAPA and Hamilton as whole would have rendered obvious to one of ordinary skills in the art the limitations of claim 1.

Claim 2: The method according to claim 1, wherein the data service table comprises advertisement image-relevant information used to confirm whether an advertisement image file exists. (Hamilton, Paragraphs [0014]-[0017], [0040]; Figure 6, element 610).

Claim 3: The method according to claim 2, wherein the step (b) comprises the steps of: confirming whether the advertisement image-relevant information exists with reference to the data service table; if the advertisement image-relevant information exists downloading at least one vendor section from the server and executing the advertisement image file extracted from the at least one vendor section. (Hamilton, Paragraphs [0014]-[0017], [0040]; Figure 6, element 610; Rejected as claim 1 and 2)

Claim 4: The method according to claim 1, wherein the advertisement image is generated by a combination of the advertisement image files extracted from the at least one vendor section. (Hamilton, Paragraphs [0014]-[0017], [0040]; Figure 6 element 610; Rejected as claim 1)

Claim 5: The method according to claim 1, wherein the advertisement image is comprised of any one selected from the group consisting of a still image or a moving picture. (Hamilton, Paragraph [0017]; Rejected as claim 1)

Claim 6: The method according to claim 1, wherein the advertisement image is outputted on a predetermined region of a screen if a video broadcast is being replayed on a screen. (Hamilton, Figure 5, Rejected as claim 1)

Claim 7: The method according to claim 1, wherein the advertisement image is outputted on a full screen if any one of an audio broadcast and an independent data broadcast is being replayed on a screen. (Hamilton, Figure 5, Rejected as claim 1)

Claim 8: The method according to claim 1, wherein, when a power is turned on or a channel is changed at the client, a data broadcast for the specific application begins. (Hamilton, Paragraph [0043], Rejected as claim 1)

Claims 9 through 16 disclose a system in accord with the methods of claims 1 through 8. Therefore, Claims 9 through 16 are rejected by the same analysis.

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
